

Jennifer Puccio is the face behind Ickle Bickle Creations. As a professional writer and crafter, she pens girl adventure and endangered species ebooks and novellas for a young and young adult audience, fulfilling an adolescent dream of caring for children and saving the world through writing and activism. Her store donates a percentage of proceeds to organizations supporting human, flora and fauna conservancy and her social media sites provide an enfolding conversation about conservancy and artistic expression as a catalyst for social change.

"Two thumbs up." The New York Times

"These girls are tough on the outside and sometimes tougher on the inside, making them an intriguing bunch to follow on their adolescent journey." The Washington Post

"The issues of our day addressed in a modern rural America setting." Chicago Tribune

When four 11 year old girls' attempt to cure summer boredom lands them shipwrecked on an island, they must use their survival knowledge to return to shore while avoiding the Delta's modern-day pirates – the neighborhood bullies.

TomGirlz Adventure Stories

By Jennifer Puccio

Venture into the wet and wild heartland of the California Delta, home to over 57 named islands, sloughs and shoals and four daring 11 year old girls: Scout, Tillie, Racine and Roni.

Adapting skills from James Bond, Nancy Drew, survivalist Bear Grylls, and of course, the local "Delta rats," they brave the elements and strange townfolk to chase after adventure and mystery, landing themselves in all sorts of situations, some of their own making, with new lessons to learn at every turn.
